A successful mod photographer in London whose world is bounded by fashion, pop music, and easy sex, feels his life is boring and despairing. Then he meets a mysterious beauty and notices something frightfully suspicious on one of his photographs of her. The fact that he may have photographed a murder does not occur to him until he studies and then blows up his negatives, uncovering details, and finally putting the puzzle together. (or not?)

Jason has been prophesied to take the throne of Thessaly. When he saves Pelias from drowning, but does not recognise him as the man who had earlier killed his father, Pelias tells Jason to travel to Colchis to find the Golden Fleece. Jason follows his advice and assembles a sailing crew of the finest men in Greece, including Hercules. They are under the protection of Hera, queen of the gods. Their voyage is replete with battles against harpies, a giant bronze Talos, a hydra, and an animated skeleton army, all brought to life by the special effects wizardry of Ray Harryhausen.
